

VanGuard — Strategic Buyer Outreach Pack

UK mobile caterer food safety compliance app · Built and ready to acquire

1. What You Are Selling

VanGuard is a Progressive Web App built specifically for UK mobile caterers — street food traders, ice cream vans, burger vans, festival caterers, and market stall operators. It digitises daily food safety compliance: temperature logs, van/equipment checks, opening and closing checklists, a cleaning schedule, food diary, LPG safety records, and a one-tap EHO audit report.

It runs entirely in the browser with no app install required, is fully HACCP-aligned, and generates a print-ready PDF inspection pack. The tech is a single HTML file deployed on Netlify, backed by Supabase (database + auth) and Stripe for billing.

Pricing: £7.99/month subscription or £99 one-off lifetime licence.

Tech complexity: Low. Any competent developer can maintain it in hours. Easily white-labelled.

What transfers: Full codebase, Netlify deployment, Supabase database and user accounts, Stripe subscription base, and the domain.

2. Strategic Buyer List

These buyers are grouped by type. The most valuable conversations will likely come from Category A (trade associations) and Category D (insurance providers), as they already own the customer relationship.

Category A — Trade Associations (Highest Priority)

These organisations represent your exact customer base. Acquiring VanGuard would let them offer a premium digital compliance tool as a membership benefit, increasing member retention and revenue.

1. NCASS (Nationwide Caterers Association) — The primary trade body for UK mobile caterers. 30+ years in the sector. Already sells compliance resources, training, and insurance to street food traders.

- Contact: info@ncass.org.uk | +44 300 124 6866
- Address: Lakeside Centre, 180 Lifford Lane, Kings Norton, Birmingham
- Website: ncass.org.uk | Industry Partners page: ncass.org.uk/industry-partners/
- Angle: "Your members are asking for this. We built it for them."

Category B — Food Safety Software Companies

These companies sell compliance software but target restaurants, care homes, and large food businesses — NOT mobile caterers. VanGuard fills a niche they are missing.

2. Complichef — UK-built digital food safety platform for restaurants, cafés, dark kitchens, care homes. Founded by a chef named Nick. Small team, founder-led.

- Contact: complichef.co.uk/contact/ (contact Nick directly)
- Angle: "You don't have a mobile catering product. We built it for you."

3. Navitas Safety — Serves 13,000+ food businesses globally. Digital food safety management, training, and EHO consulting. HQ in Leicestershire.

- Contact: navitassafety.com (contact form) | shop.navitassafety.com/en-us/pages/contact
- Address: 1st Floor, 13 Phoenix Park, Coalville, Leicestershire LE67 3HB
- Angle: "You have the platform and the reach — we have the mobile catering niche."

4. Food Safety Guru — UK-based digital food safety management platform. Targets single and multi-site food businesses.

- Contact: foodsafetyguru.co.uk
- Angle: Same as above — mobile catering gap in their offering.

5. FoodDocs — AI-powered HACCP and food safety platform used by UK hospitality. Strong growth trajectory.

- Contact: fooddocs.com
- Angle: "We built the mobile catering module you haven't got around to yet."

Category C — Food Hygiene Training Companies

These companies train the exact people who need VanGuard. The moment someone passes their Level 2 food hygiene certificate, they need a daily compliance system. This is the perfect acquisition funnel.

6. High Speed Training — One of the UK's largest online training providers. 180+ courses, £16.5m revenue. Food hygiene is their flagship product.

- Contact: support@highspeedtraining.co.uk | 03330 067000
- Address: Ilkley, Leeds
- Angle: "Bundle VanGuard with your Level 2 course. Every graduate needs it."

7. The Food Hygiene Company — UK-based accredited online food hygiene training.

- Contact: foodhygienecompany.co.uk
- Angle: Same funnel approach — post-certificate upsell.

8. Eversley Training — Level 2 & 3 food hygiene certificates from £12.50. Volume training provider.

- Contact: eversley-training.co.uk
- Angle: Bundle or affiliate.

9. Event Food Safety — Highfield-accredited training, both online and on-site.

- Contact: eventfoodsafety.co.uk
- Angle: Specialists in outdoor/event food safety — directly aligned with mobile catering.

Category D — Mobile Catering Insurance Providers (High Potential)

Insurance companies have a powerful incentive: caterers who keep proper records have fewer incidents, fewer disputes, and fewer claims. VanGuard is a risk-reduction tool they can offer policyholders.

10. Moving Food — Specialist mobile catering insurance broker with 10 years in the sector. Small, niche, founder-led.

- Contact: movingfood.co.uk
- Angle: "Offer VanGuard to policyholders. Compliant caterers = fewer claims."

11. Mobilers Insurance — Mobile catering and static trailer insurance specialists.

- Contact: mobilers.co.uk
- Angle: Same risk-reduction angle.

12. Protectivity — Specialist protection for street food sellers, freelance vendors, and mobile food businesses.

- Contact: protectivity.com
- Angle: "Your policyholders need this to stay compliant between renewals."

13. NCASS Insurance — Insurance arm of NCASS. Naturally aligned with VanGuard's user base.

- Contact: ncassinsurance.co.uk
- Angle: "Your policyholders are our users. Let's combine."

14. Giles Insurance — Family-run broker, 30+ years in catering and hospitality insurance. NCASS partner.

- Contact: ncass.org.uk/catering-insurance/
- Angle: Bundle with insurance renewal as a compliance add-on.

Category E — Catering Equipment & Supply Companies

These companies supply the vans, trailers, and equipment that mobile caterers use. They interact with customers at the point of setup — the ideal moment to introduce a compliance tool.

15. Nisbets — UK's largest catering equipment supplier. Sells to market traders and mobile caterers.

- Contact: nisbets.co.uk (business team)
- Angle: "Every van you sell needs a compliance system. Bundle ours."

16. Street Food Traders — UK mobile event catering company and community (streetfoodtraders.co.uk).

- Contact: streetfoodtraders.co.uk
- Angle: White-label as their own member compliance tool.

SUBJECT: Food safety app built for mobile caterers — acquisition opportunity

Hi [First name],

[PERSONALISED OPENER — one sentence that proves you know their business. Examples below:]

"I've been a member of NCASS for [X] and noticed there's no digital compliance tool in the members' area."

"I completed your Level 2 food hygiene course last year — the thing nobody tells you is what to do after you pass."

"I noticed CompliChef doesn't currently have anything for street food traders and mobile caterers."

"As a mobile caterer with [insurer] I've always thought there's an obvious compliance gap between getting insured and actually staying compliant."

I've spent the last year building VanGuard — a food safety compliance app built specifically for UK mobile caterers.

It covers everything an EHO wants to see: daily temperature logs, opening and closing checks, van and equipment checklists, cleaning schedules, LPG safety records, and a one-tap report that generates a full audit pack as a printable PDF. It works on any phone, no download needed.

[PERSONALISED VALUE LINE — one sentence on why it matters to THEM specifically:]

"For NCASS it could become a digital compliance benefit that no other trade association offers."

"For High Speed Training it's the natural next step after someone passes your Level 2 — daily compliance made simple."

"For CompliChef it fills the mobile catering gap in your sector coverage."

"For Moving Food it means your policyholders are keeping records that hold up in a claim."

I'm looking to sell the product to someone who can grow it. The tech is simple, it's fully built, live, and working today. It hasn't been marketed — so there are no active users yet. That's actually the opportunity: whoever acquires it gets a clean book, zero support overhead, and a product they can position however fits their brand.

Would a 15-minute call this week or next be useful? In the meantime, feel free to have a click around the live app: vanguardapp.co.uk — no sign-up required to explore the demo.

4. Sending Strategy

Who to address: Find the founder, commercial director, or partnerships manager on LinkedIn. Never send to a generic info@ address first — research the name.

Order to send: Start with Category A (NCASS) and Category D (insurance) — they have the most immediate commercial logic. Then Category C (training), then B (software).

Follow-up: If no reply after 5 business days, send one follow-up: "Just checking this didn't land in spam — happy to send a quick video walkthrough if easier."

What to send if they reply: A short Loom video walkthrough of the app + a one-page PDF with screenshots, user numbers, and the tech stack. Do not send pricing in the first email.

Target price: Start conversations without a number. If pressed, say "open to discussion — I'd want to understand how it fits your business before we talk numbers." The product has had zero marketing spend — so while there are no active subscribers yet, the value is in the code, the niche, and what a buyer with an existing audience can do with it. Anywhere from £2k–£5k as a code acquisition to £10k–£20k+ if they see strategic value in owning the mobile catering niche is realistic. Start conversations without a number. If pressed, say "open to discussion — I'd want to understand how it fits your business before we talk numbers." Anything from £2k (code-only, no users) to £20k+ (with active subscribers) is realistic depending on who's buying.
